Gospel Reflection

ACCEPT GOD'S INVITATION AND BE TRANSFORMED

My Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Imagine receiving an invitation to a great wedding feast prepared by a king. Everything is ready: the food is prepared, the table is set, the music is playing, and the doors are open. Yet, surprisingly, some of those invited refuse to come. This is the picture Jesus gives us in today's Gospel. The beautiful truth is that God has prepared a feast for us and He wants us to be part of it. The feast is an image of the Kingdom of God, of communion with Him, and ultimately of eternal life. The tragedy is not that God fails to invite us; the tragedy is that sometimes we are too busy, too distracted, too attached to other things, or simply unwilling to respond. Today's readings therefore ask us a simple question: What are we doing with God's invitation?

The prophet Isaiah in the first reading gives us one of the most beautiful images of God's salvation: God prepares a feast not just for a few people, but for all peoples. He promises to remove the veil of sadness, wipe away tears, and ultimately destroy death. This is a message of hope: God does not want His children to remain in sadness, fear and despair. He prepares something greater for us. Think about nature. A seed is buried in the ground, and for a time it seems as though nothing is happening. But beneath the soil, life is developing. Then, at the right time, the seed breaks through and becomes a plant. In the same way, there are moments in our lives when we see only difficulty, but God may already be preparing something we cannot yet see. Do not judge God's work by what you see today. Trust that God is preparing tomorrow.

St. Paul gives us a very practical lesson in the second reading. He says that he has learned how to live in abundance and how to live in need. He has experienced plenty and he has experienced hunger, but he has learned the secret of remaining faithful in both circumstances. Then he gives us those beautiful words: "I can do all things in Him who strengthens me." Paul is not saying that God will give us everything we want. He is saying that whatever situation we find ourselves in, Christ can give us the strength to remain faithful. This is a great lesson for life. Sometimes we think, "I will be happy when I have more money, a better job, a better house, a better relationship, or fewer problems." But Paul teaches us that peace does not depend entirely on what we possess. Like nature, we must learn contentment. The tree does not complain that it is not a flower, and the flower does not complain that it is not a tree. Each receives from God what it needs to fulfill its purpose. Gratitude teaches us to recognize God's blessings even in the midst of difficulties. As St. Teresa of Calcutta said, "If you are humble, nothing will touch you, neither praise nor disgrace, because you know what you are." Our strength ultimately comes not from what we possess but from Christ who sustains us.

The Gospel tells us something beautiful: God's invitation is generous and universal. But then Jesus introduces the man without the wedding garment. This means that accepting God's invitation requires a response. We cannot simply say, "I am a Christian," while refusing to allow Christ to change our lives. The wedding garment represents a life transformed by faith, a life of love, mercy, forgiveness, holiness and charity. We are invited to the Eucharistic table every Sunday, but the question is: Are we allowing the Eucharist to change us? The feast is ready, the invitation has been given, and Christ is waiting. Let us not be so occupied with the things of this world that we miss what God is offering us. As Pope Benedict XVI reminded us, "The Christian faith is not an idea but an event, an encounter with Jesus Christ."

Today, Christ invites us to an encounter, to conversion, and ultimately to the eternal banquet. May we accept His invitation, put on the garment of love, and live each day with gratitude and trust, so that one day we may take our place at the eternal feast in God's Kingdom. Amen.

Reflexión sobre las Escrituras

ACEPTA LA INVITACIÓN DE DIOS Y DEJA QUE TE TRANSFORME

Hermanos y hermanas en Cristo,

Imagina que recibes una invitación para un gran banquete de boda organizado por un rey. Todo está listo: la comida está preparada, la mesa está puesta, suena la música y las puertas están abiertas. Sin embargo, sorprendentemente, algunos de los invitados se niegan a acudir. Esta es la imagen que nos ofrece Jesús en el Evangelio de hoy. La hermosa verdad es que Dios ha preparado un banquete para nosotros y quiere que formemos parte de él. El banquete es una imagen del Reino de Dios, de la comunión con Él y, en última instancia, de la vida eterna. La tragedia no es que Dios no nos invite; la tragedia es que, a veces, estamos demasiado ocupados, demasiado distraídos, demasiado apegados a otras cosas o, sencillamente, no estamos dispuestos a responder. Por eso, las lecturas de hoy nos plantean una pregunta sencilla: ¿qué hacemos con la invitación de Dios?

El profeta Isaías, en la primera lectura, nos ofrece una de las imágenes más bellas de la salvación de Dios: Dios prepara un banquete no solo para unos pocos, sino para todos los pueblos. Promete quitar el velo de la tristeza, enjugar las lágrimas y, finalmente, acabar con la muerte. Este es un mensaje de esperanza: Dios no quiere que sus hijos permanezcan en la tristeza, el miedo y la desesperación. Él nos tiene preparado algo aún más grande. Piensa en la naturaleza. Una semilla queda enterrada en la tierra y, durante un tiempo, parece que no pasa nada. Pero bajo el suelo, la vida se va desarrollando. Entonces, en el momento adecuado, la semilla brota y se convierte en una planta. Del mismo modo, hay momentos en nuestras vidas en los que solo vemos dificultades, pero puede que Dios ya esté preparando algo que aún no podemos ver. No juzgues la obra de Dios por lo que ves hoy. Confía en que Dios está preparando el mañana.

San Pablo nos da una lección muy práctica en la segunda lectura. Dice que ha aprendido a vivir en la abundancia y a vivir en la necesidad. Ha conocido la abundancia y ha pasado hambre, pero ha aprendido el secreto de mantenerse fiel en ambas circunstancias. A continuación, nos ofrece estas hermosas palabras: «Todo lo puedo en Aquel que me fortalece». Pablo no está diciendo que Dios nos vaya a dar todo lo que queramos. Lo que quiere decir es que, sea cual sea la situación en la que nos encontremos, Cristo puede darnos la fuerza para seguir siendo fieles. Esta es una gran lección para la vida. A veces pensamos: «Seré feliz cuando tenga más dinero, un mejor trabajo, una casa mejor, una mejor relación o menos problemas». Pero Pablo nos enseña que la paz no depende por completo de lo que poseemos. Al igual que la naturaleza, debemos aprender a estar satisfechos. El árbol no se queja de no ser una flor, y la flor no se queja de no ser un árbol. Cada uno recibe de Dios lo que necesita para cumplir su propósito. La gratitud nos enseña a reconocer las bendiciones de Dios incluso en medio de las dificultades. Como dijo Santa Teresa de Calcuta: «Si eres humilde, nada te afectará, ni los elogios ni las deshonras, porque sabes quién eres». En última instancia, nuestra fuerza no proviene de lo que poseemos, sino de Cristo, que nos sostiene.

El Evangelio nos cuenta algo hermoso: la invitación de Dios es generosa y universal. Pero luego Jesús nos presenta al hombre que no llevaba el traje de boda. Esto significa que aceptar la invitación de Dios requiere una respuesta. No podemos limitarnos a decir: «Soy cristiano», mientras nos negamos a permitir que Cristo transforme nuestras vidas. El traje de boda representa una vida transformada por la fe, una vida de amor, misericordia, perdón, santidad y caridad. Cada domingo se nos invita a la mesa eucarística, pero la pregunta es: ¿estamos dejando que la Eucaristía nos transforme? El banquete está preparado, la invitación se ha hecho y Cristo nos espera. No estemos tan ocupados con las cosas de este mundo que dejemos pasar lo que Dios nos ofrece. Como nos recordó el papa Benedicto XVI: «La fe cristiana no es una idea, sino un acontecimiento, un encuentro con Jesucristo».

Hoy, Cristo nos invita a un encuentro, a la conversión y, en última instancia, al banquete eterno. Que aceptemos su invitación, nos revistamos de amor y vivamos cada día con gratitud y confianza, para que algún día podamos ocupar nuestro lugar en el banquete eterno del Reino de Dios. Amén.

A Note From The SJB Principal

Dear St. Benedict Parishioners,

You are invited to Harvest Fest, our annual fall celebration with St. John Bosco Catholic School and St. Benedict Catholic Church.

Join us Saturday, October 24, from 5 to 8 pm on the back grounds of the St. John Bosco campus. Come in costume and bring the whole family for an evening of carnival games, a pumpkin scavenger hunt, petting zoo, costume contest, lip sync battle, raffle baskets, and plenty of community spirit. After a long Arizona summer, we have earned a fun night together.

Please bring a non-perishable food donation for St. Vincent de Paul. Each child who donates will receive a Harvest Fest activity bag, including a map for the pumpkin scavenger hunt. Completed maps can be turned in for a prize.

Tickets are available in advance at sjbosco.org/harvestfest and at the door. Please use the southeast gate by the playground and fields to enter. We would love to see our parish and school families there!

Joyful Blessings,
Jamie Bescak, M.Ed., Principal
